Who we are:

U.S. Army Training and Doctrine Command was created on July 1st, 1973 to transform the Vietnam-era Army into the best trained, led, organized, and equipped land power in the world. Today, TRADOC sustains its proud legacy through four primary functions:

- We recruit and train Soldiers, and support unit training
- We develop adaptive leaders – both Soldier and Civilian
- We guide the Army through doctrine
- We shape the Army by building and integrating formations, capabilities, and materiel

Mission:

Training and Doctrine Command develops, educates and trains Soldiers, civilians, and leaders; supports unit training; and designs, builds and integrates a versatile mix of capabilities, formations, and equipment to strengthen the U.S. Army as America's Force of Decisive Action.

CG's Vision:

Victory starts here - by recruiting, training and educating the Army that fights today while leading the human and structural transitions which build an Army that understands, adapts to and dominates future conflicts

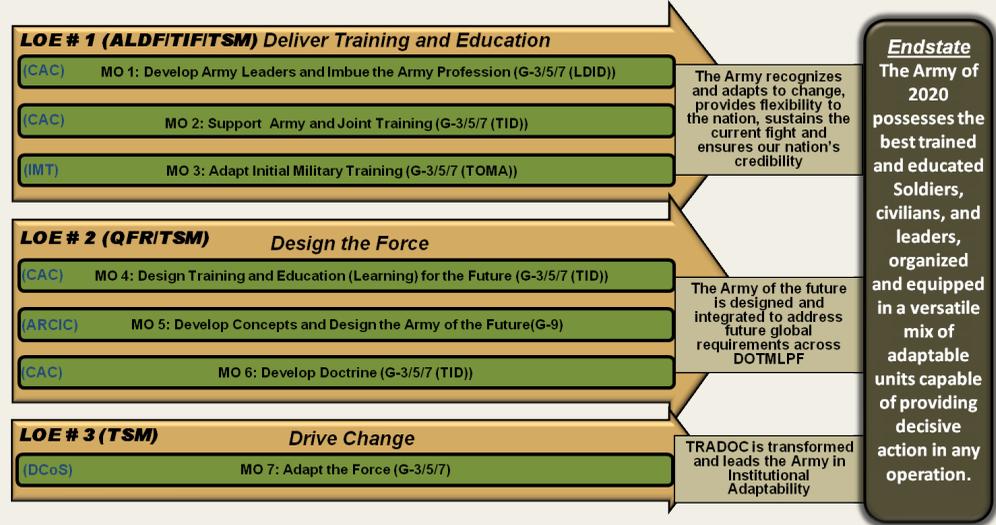

Now at Fort Eustis, TRADOC executes its mission through the headquarters staff and its major subordinate commands:

- Army Capabilities Integration Center (Fort Eustis)
- Asymmetric Warfare Group (Fort Meade, MD)
- Combined Arms Center (Fort Leavenworth, KS)
- Combined Arms Support Command (Fort Lee, VA)
- Initial Military Training (Fort Eustis)
- US Army Cadet Command (Fort Knox, KY)
- US Army Recruiting Command (Fort Knox, KY)

TRADOC oversees 32 Army schools organized under eight "Centers of Excellence," each focused on a separate area of expertise within the Army (such as Maneuver and Signal). These Centers train nearly 600,000 Soldiers and Servicemembers each year.
